SELECTED RECENT ACQUISITIONS FROM HUD'S OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

(Numbers in parentheses are OIA's accession numbers)

Australia. Department of Housing and Construction. Building Research in Australia, 1979-80. Canberra, Australia, 1981, 37pp. (81293034)

A report of the advisory committee which reviews building and construction research financed by the Australian Government. Provides a membership list of the advisory committee. In separate sections, presents the reports of standing committees on: research on materials; research on structures and foundations; research on mechanical services; and research on building planning and management. Also provides a directory of the government's building research organizations.

Belgium. U.S. Mission to the European Communities. There is No Home Like Home: A Belgian City Explores New Ways to Provide Services to Elderly on Out-Patient Basis. Brussels, Belgium, 1981, 7pp. (81293020)

A report of a visit to the City of Michelen (Belgium) that describes a social welfare program for the elderly. The program adapts homes (stairways, wheel chair ramps, safety in bathrooms, etc.) and also buys homes to adapt them for the elderly--thus eliminating the need of larger institutional homes for the aged. The program also provides neighborhood centers where some basic services are provided, and some where recreation and social programs are offered. Other innovations, such as transportation to medical care, shopping, and others are being tried, and some have been implemented with success.

Canada. Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Effects of Incentive Programs to Industry on the Migratory Patterns of the Canadian Economy. Ottawa, Canada, 1978, 169pp. (81293008)

Regional and provincial comparisons of migration of economic development and economic activity due to the federal and provincial incentive programs for economic development. Data was collected for the period between 1966 and 1976, and the main indicators include population, unemployment, gross domestic products, investments, income, retail sales, and manufacturing. Describes the incentives programs (provincial and federal). Discusses various measures of inter-relation between the migratory patterns of economic activity and the incentive programs for manufacturing industries, at the local and regional level. Provides some conclusions. The bibliographical annex is not included.

Finland. Finnish Standards Association. Finland: Building Control (Excerpts). Helsinki, Finland, 1981, 28pp. (81293024)

This set of excerpts from a compendium on building control in Finland provides sections on: the building regulation system in Finland, certifying activities and organizations, and a list of published standards dealing with building and housing. The building regulatory functions of the Ministry of the Interior are described in some detail, as are the certification process in the Ministry and in the Finnish Standards Association.

Indonesia. Central Bureau of Statistics. Perusahaan Konstruksi Di Indonesia, Tahun 1977--Construction Establishments in Indonesia, 1977. Volume II. Jakarta, Indonesia, 1979, 154pp. (81293051)

This volume, part of a comprehensive series of the construction census of 1977, deals with construction establishments in Indonesia. Provides data by province, on construction establishments, costs of necessities in areas of construction, taxes and other payments, services available and its costs, project sizes and costs, and other data. The entire volume is a collection of tables.

Japan. Asano, Tashaki. On-Site Wastewater Reclamation and Reuse Systems in Commercial Buildings and Apartment Complexes. 1980, 29pp. (81293022)

A paper on on-site wastewater reclamation and reuses in Japan. Mentions the growing demand for water for domestic and industrial uses in Japan, and its impact on the limited water resources available. Comments on current on-site water reclamation and systems, and their effectiveness. Presents two case studies which include details on water quality and systems operations. Discusses current problems and future prospects for on-site water reclamation and reuse systems in Japan, especially from the standpoint of engineering and water quality. Provides a summary and conclusions. The appendices include tables, systems charts and drawings.

Japan. Department of City Housing. Re-Examination and Reinforcement of Your Home Against Earthquakes. Shizuoka, Japan, 1979, 15pp. (81293029)

A bulletin that provides information about houses' weakenesses against earthquakes and the methods that homeowners can employ to detect them. Points out easy steps from examination of housing components. Provides information on how to reinforce the house against earthquakes, and about resistant homes, as well as provides helpful hints for building an earthquake-proof home. Provides charts, tables, and plans. The original bulletin (in Japanese) is attached.

People's Republic of China. U.S. Consulate. Shanghai's Urban Development Problems: Decay Beneath the Glitter. Shanghai, PRC, 1981, 15pp. (81293005)

Provides a historical summary of Shanghai since the communist revolution. Points out that the major problems that faced the city-inflation, social disorder, and moderate industrial sector-were addressed effectively. Now Shanghai is the country's industrial giant. Mentions the new problems that beset over 11 million citizens, and low level of attention such problems attracted from national policy makers until recently. Points out the new emphases in urban development, especially housing and environmental aspects, in current plans though the budgetary fights are yet to be won.

United Kingdom. Department of the Environment. Demonstration Projects in the United Kingdom. London, United Kingdom, 1980, 79pp. (81293016)

This publication is the United Kingdom's contribution to the European campaign for urban renaissance organized by the Council of Europe. It lists 58 projects (five of them National projects) which have been chosen as being representative of the wide range of current urban renewal practice in the United Kingdom, and of the imaginativeness possible in renewing old urban settings. Attached are a leaflet on the campaign, and a programme of events in the United Kingdom dealing with the campaign. Includes project information and photographics.

United Kingdom. Department of the Environment. Families in Flats. London, United Kingdom, 1981, 56pp. (81279008)

An examination of local authority policies for families in flats in 28 local authorities in London and outside London, taking into consideration various aspects of allocation policies. Discusses attitudes and aspects of families who move from the higher to the lower floors of flats. Points out the effects on children living in flats, in their development and their safety. Mentions various compensations or services available to families with children in flats. Provides some conclusions and recommendations. The appendix includes data on the surveys used, locations visited, and other information. Includes photographs, charts, and tables.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development distributes only its own publications. It does not distribute HUD-sponsored publications nor those prepared under contract to HUD. Retention copies of others may be ordered from the issuing organizations or publishers.

Comprehensive Planning (701) Reports may be consulted in the 9 HUD Planning Depository libraries listed below that receive all documents. Reports of local interest may also be consulted in the 10 HUD Regional Office libraries, and about a hundred planning schools and other university libraries. Retention copies are available for a few highly selected reports, and inquiry about their price and availability should be made to:

Housing and Planning References

Notice

To recipients of free copies of Housing and Planning References.

The policy of free distribution of Housing and Planning References has been discontinued. The March/April, 1982 issue will be the last distributed on a complimentary basis, except for those organizations that have previously established an exchange program with the Library of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Housing and Planning References is the most comprehensive index of current literature in the broad fields of housing and community development. It provides a bi-monthly overview of the latest periodical articles and publications on subjects of concern to HUD and its clientele. These include public officials, planners, builders, developers, housing and real estate specialists, foreign and domestic universities and organizations with interests in urban activities. Beginning with the November/December 1982 issue, its usefulness will be further enhanced by cumulative author and geographic indexes that will appear annually thereafter.

Housing and Planning References is available through the U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO). Subscription rates are $23.00 a year domestic, $28.75 foreign, and may be paid by check, money order, or Documents coupon.

Please use the order form below to make certain that you do not miss any issues of this valuable publication.

SELECTED RECENT ACQUISITIONS FROM HUD'S OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

(Numbers in parentheses are OIA's accession numbers)

Australia. Ministry of Housing. Housing and Care for the Retired and Elderly. Melbourne, Australia, 1980, 450pp. (81279009)

A consultant report on housing and care for the elderly in Victoria, Australia. Provides an introduction and summary of conclusions and recommendations. Discusses the population of elderly in Victoria, housing and other care needs of the elderly, local government activities, national programs, subsidized accommodations, unsubsidized accommodations, nursing homes, congregate housing, and other types of accommodations for the elderly in Victoria. Presents a larger number of tables, photos, and charts. Each section includes some conclusions and recommendations.

Canada. Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Flexibility for Canadian Housing: A State of the Art Review. Ottawa, Canada, 1979, 114pp. (81293025*)

A comprehensive review of the literature in the area of "Flexibility" in housing. Introduces the concept of flexibility and discusses the present conditions, problems and issues related to flexibility and housing in Canada. Describes types of flexibility in housing--according to use, function, construction elements, and others. Discusses the potential economy in the application of flexibility in housing planning, especially in the long term, when housing needs change and old stock needs remodeling or renewing. Provides charts, pictures, and other visual aids. The appendices provide annotated bibliographic entries.

Canada. University of Toronto. Lives and Times of Urban Adolescents: Activity Patterns and Community Studies. Centre for Urban and Community Studies, Toronto, Canada, 1980, 106pp. (81293036*)

A presentation of some research findings on the dimensions along which teenagers lives and activities differ, and to relate these differences to other variables of change in the fabric of cities. Emphasizes how access to opportunities affect teenagers' lives, and that such opportunities are one set of factors manipulated by society more than other factors. The text discusses the questionnaire used, and discusses the results related to student activity patterns, fears held in their neighborhoods, knowledge of Toronto, school grades and expectations, summer activity, jobs, and others. Presents some conclusions. The appendices include materials on the samples used, and some results on the attitudes of students.

China. U.S. Consulate. Shanghai's Urban Development Problems: Decay Beneath the Glitter. Shanghai, People's Republic of China, 1981, 14pp. (81293005)

Provides a historical summary of Shanghai since the communist revolution. Points out that the mahor problems that faced the city, inflation, social disorder, and moderate industrial sector, were addressed effectively. Now Shanghai is the country's industrial gaint. Mentions the new problems that beset over 11 million citizens, and the low level of attention such problems attracted from national policy makers until recently. Points out the new emphases in urban development, especially housing and environmental aspects, in current plans though the budgetary fights are yet to be won.

Federal Republic of Germany. Federal Ministry of Regional Planning, Building and Urban Development. Influence of Intraregional Migration on Agglomeration Development. Bonn, Federal Republic of Germany, 1975, 264pp. (81296008)

A paper contributed by the Federal Republic of Germany to a joint research program of the European community concerning the growth of urban agglomerations. It emphasizes migration trends in Europe, and in Germany in particular. Develops three explanatory models for intraregional migration and its effects. Develops scenarios for intraregional migration and population movement, and applies data from the Rhine Main agglomeration, extending the trends to 1900. Discusses the results of the application of the scenarios, including the cases of the Hamburg and Munich regions. Summarizes the regional development policies for urban agglomeration in the FRG, and comments on the growth of agglomerations in Europe in view of the scenarios and present trends. Provides maps, charts and tables.

Federal Republic of Germany. Federation of Non-profit-Making Housing Enterprises. Non-Profit-Making Housing Societies in the Federal Republic of Germany, Cologne, Federal Republic of Germany, 1981, 17pp. (81287002)

The first part of this report provides general comments on the types of non-profit housing enterprises in the Federal Republic of Germany. Provides figures on housing stock held by their operations, especially since the Second World War. The second part describes in some more detail the operations of the non-profit enterprises in the national housing economy. Provides a historical background, the achievements since 1949, their incidence in the national economy, size and types of non-profit enterprises and some of the principles that guide their operations. Emphasizes that renovation and rehabilitation is such a much emphasized activity for these enterprises presently.

France. Council of Europe. Methods to Stop Rural Depopulation and to Involve Citizens in the Development of these Regions. Strasbourg, France, 1980, 37pp. (81293004*)

This report, one of a series on this topic, reviews the statutory possibilities that exist in member countries to promote actions to prevent the depopulation of affected rural areas and specific case studies submitted by the member countries. The study received full responses from 11 countries, and some general comments on the replies to the questionnaires are presented in the first section. The case studies are also summarized and some aspects such as unemployment, infrastructure and others are pointed out in some detail. Presents some conclusions and recommendations. The appendix includes their questionnaire and the responses.

Israel. Ministry of Construction and Housing. Programs for Housing Assistance. Tel Aviv, Israel, 1979, 25pp. (81292006)

A handbook that includes brochures of four housing assistance programs in Israel. These include: young couples program of 1979; aid to settlers in development towns; loans to improve the conditions; and the 3+ Program. Each brochure includes the basic characteristics of the program, eligibility requirements, types of assistance, places where assistance is applicable, and other criteria to be considered when applying for housing assistance. Tables of applicable data are included.

Japan. Ministry of Construction. Activities of the Japanese Ministry of Construction at a Glance. Tokyo, Japan, 1980, 48pp. (81296002)

A general description of the objectives, organization, and activities of the Japenese Ministry of Construction. Describes the general objectives in the areas of housing, urban development, national land use, and environmental and infrastructure improvement throughout the country. Points out policy guidelines that were developed for the achievement of the Ministry's objectives and the actions undertaken by its various divisions, bureaus, and other subsidiary units. Describes its auxiliary organizations, research centers, educational centers, and others. Includes a chart of the organization of the Ministry and its divisions. Provides statistics, charts, photographs, and graphs throughout the text.

Netherlands. Ministry of Transport and Public Works. New Concepts in the Lay-out of Urban Districts and the Design and Management of Traffic Therein. National Physical Planning Agency, The Hague, The Netherlands, 1981, 31pp. (81296001)

The printed version of a national monograph submitted by the Netherlands to a UN ECE meeting held in Veldhoven (Netherlands) during May 1981. Presents the background to the demonstration projects of conceptualization of the areas chosen; Eidhoven and Rijswijk. Mentions the surveys taken, and the treatment of the problem faced. Describes other faces of the projects, including financing, parking, road safety, legal aspects and others. The annexes include questions for guidance for other national monographs and case studies.

New Zealand. Institute of Economic Research. Effects of Central Government on the Stability of the Building Industry. Wellington, New Zealand, 1980, 60pp. (82064007*)

A report of a contracted research project on the impact of government policies and programs on the building industry. Provides an introduction to the problems. Discusses the data used, mostly quarterly reports on building permits and government budgets and program activities. Discusses the data and reviews the impact of urban and housing lending policies on housing production and demand. Provides comments on the results, as well as conclusions. The appendix includes notes on the data and the models used in the analysis. Includes data, tables and charts.

Switzerland. United Nations. Quality of Life and Human Settlements: Examples of Protection and Improvement in South European Countries. Economic Commission for Europe, Geneva, Switzerland, 1981, 38pp. (81296014)

This publication draws together the material developed over a period of 10 years by the group of experts on housing, building and planning problems and policies in the countries of Southern Europe, a subsidary of the committee on housing, building and planning. Provides an introduction to the topic and to the work of the group. Provides a chapter on the quality of life in Southern European cities, and a chapter on human settlements and recreation in the countries of South Europe. Provides some conclusions on important aspects for improving quality of life in the region; employment, environment, social and cultural concerns, and inter-regional aspects.

United Kingdom. Department of the Environment. Reducing Vandalism on Public Housing Estates. Housing Development Directorate, London, United Kingdom, 1981, 41pp. (81279003*)

A broad assessment of costs and types of vandalism in public housing estates, and ways to reduce it. Provides some preliminary conclusions on the problems. Discusses the need to maintain and upgrade existing housing projects before the pattern of vandalisms sets in and the complexes decay. Points out new forms of management, provision of appropriate amenities and others that prevent vandalism in the long run. Provides a brief summary of four studies related to vandalism.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development distributes only its own publications. It does not distribute HUD-sponsored publications nor those prepared under contract to HUD. Retention copies of others may be ordered from the issuing organizations or publishers.

Comprehensive Planning (701) Reports may be consulted in the 9 HUD Planning Depository libraries listed below that receive all documents. Reports of local interest may also be consulted in the 10 HUD Regional Office libraries, and about a hundred planning schools and other university libraries. Retention copies are available for a few highly selected reports, and inquiry about their price and availability should be made to:

(Numbers in parentheses are OIA's accession numbers)

Australia. Town and Country Planning Board. Town and Country Planning Board Thirty-fifth Annual Report, 1979-80. Melbourne, Australia, 1980, 95pp. (82130008)

This last annual report of the Town and Country Planning Board of the State of Victoria (Australia), covers its activities for the year ending on June 1980. The functions of the Board were taken over by the Department of Planning in January 1981. Provides an introduction to the report, and covers all activities under strategies planning, local planning, statutory review of planning schemes, urban renewal and others. The appendices include tables of project costs, plans prepared and plans finished, and publications.

Canada. Department of Cooperative Development. Sweat Equity Housing Program: Research Report. Winnipeg, Canada, 1978, 16pp. (82160008)

Describes the background to the Manitoba Sweat Equity Program, and the roles of the Department of Cooperative Development and the credit unions and cooperatives in the program. Describes the differences between urban and rural sweat equity cooperatives, providing detailed cost and structure charts for various locations. Discusses the roles of those involved in the program, mentions the coordination of the sweat equity program with other national programs. The appendix includes some job descriptions.

Canada. Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Macro and Micro Housing Programs in Israel. Ottawa, Canada, 1979, 208pp. (82160016*)

A report of a new study trip to Israel. It deals with policies and programs to house Israel's population since the large waves of immigrants in the late forties. It views the macro aspects of housing (construction cycles, prices, rental markets), and the micro aspects of housing programs (subsidy programs, housing for young couples, for the poor, etc.) discusses aspects of housing delivery and planning. It provides a set of conclusions and recommendations. The appendices contain recommendations by a study committee of 1975, and recommendations of the Ministry of Housing on housing programs for the elderly. The study includes plenty of data and tables.

Finland. Ministry of the Interior. Aspects of Finnish Housing Policy. Helsinki, Finland, 1979, 14pp. (82160009)

A paper presented as part of the Finnish contribution for the symposium on housing, held in Weimar, German Decromatic Republic, in May 1979. Provides general socio-economic data for housing and families in Finland. Discusses the housing stock and the economy of housing, including qualitative aspects and renovation of housing as well as construction. Points out the development of housing finance programs, and the details of the two national ten-year housing programs. Also mentions co-operative housing and building research activities.

France. Council for Europe. Building Costs. Steering Committee for Regional Planning and Monuments and Sites, Strasbourg, France, 1980, 127pp. (82160004)

A report on cost factors involved in the evaluation of conservation and rehabilitation costs of old buildings, as compared to costs of new buildings in European countries--within the framework of urban-related programs of the Council of Europe. Assesses data from case studies to develop conservation costs. Provides a summary of the project's objectives, the methodology employed, and the results obtained. Discusses the nature of the case studies. Appendix I presents a summary of the French case studies in a national perspective. Appendix II list summaries of three case studies in Belgium, 11 in France, and 8 in the United Kingdom. Includes tables, charts, and floor plans.

Hong Kong. Housing Authority. Hong Kong Housing Authority Annual Report, 1980-81. Public Relations Unit, Hong Kong, 1981, 103pp. (82130005)

An annual report of the activities of the Hong Kong Housing authority. Presents the chairman's review of the operations for the past year. Describes the housing authority, and provides information on the areas of administration and planning, construction undertaken, real estate management, construction for homeownership, and other operations. The appendices include organizational charts, tables of statistics, financial statements, statistics of production and construction, and others. Includes plenty of photos, charts, and tables.

Ireland. National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials. Ireland's National Housing Programs: A Lesson in Effective Policy Implementation. Washington, DC, 1981, 70pp. (8216000101)

An article resulting from a trip and visits with various housing officials in Ireland. Discusses the dramatic changes in housing policies and achievements in the past decades, from an ill housed to a well housed nation. Describes the various ways the government's policies have stimulated the private housing sector, making sure that speculation does not take place. Outlines some of the government programs that help people buy homes, public housing construction, mortgage financing and others. Points out some of the deficiencies in designs, densities and others that posed problems before. Concludes, optimistically, that Ireland's housing policies have been quite effective in housing its people adequately and fast.

Japan. Tokyo Metropolitan Government. Port of Tokyo, 1981, Tokyo, Japan, 1981, 36pp. (82130002)

A general report on the Port of Tokyo, its capacity, facilities, and its achievements in land reclamation and planned growth. Provides a brief history of the Port, its meanings for the Tokyo Metropolitan Region and its expansion. Describes each of the terminals, their specialities, and capacities. Discusses land use, land reclamation and recreation areas and housing built within the Port. Provides details of future plans for and, statistics on shipping and trade through the Port.

Sweden. Swedish Institute. Leisure Time Homes in Sweden. Stockholm, Sweden, 1978, 9pp. (82160011)

A general summary on leisure homes in Sweden. Provides an introduction to the topic and a commentary on the increase of leisure time homes in Sweden. Discusses the characteristic of leisure time homes and their distribution in the country. Comments on some of the apparent reasons for buying a second leisure home in Sweden and the trends for the future.

Switzerland. United Nations Economic Commission for Europe. Improvement of Housing and Its Surroundings. Committee on Housing, Building and Planning, Geneva, Switzerland, 1981, 70pp. (82160003)

This synthesis report is based on materials prepared for the Seminar on Improvement of Housing and Its Surroundings, held in the Netherlands in 1979. The seminar dealt with three areas: planning and construction aspects, social aspects, and economic and organizational aspects of improvement of housing and its surroundings. This report deals with them, and provides examples from various European countries. Treats the role of government at all levels, the objectives sought, and the resources they commit to achieve housing improvement. Discusses the results observed in various localities. The appendices provide a list of documents used as references, and notes on the federal programs for housing improvement in the United States, traffic planning in the Federal Republic of Germany, and financing of housing improvement schemes in France and the Federal Republic of Germany.

Thailand. UNESCO Regional Office for Education in Asia and the Pacific. Design of Secondary Schools: A Case Study, Singapore. Bangkok, Thailand. 1981, 29pp. (82146006)

A case study of Singapore's experience in design and building of high schools. Introduces the achievements and the objectives of Singapore's building program. Discusses curricula and their impact on the design of high schools, both in size and other considerations. Explains the aspects of design and their standardization for high schools. The last chapter presents various types of costs involved in the building of high schools. Includes plenty of tables, charts, and photographs.

U.S.S.R. Foreign Broadcast Information Service. Design Fundamentals of Nonindustrial and Industrial Buildings. Washington, DC, 1981, 236pp. (82130013)

Presents the basic principles of the standard design of nonindustrial and industrial buildings and the requirements for courses taught on these subjects. Deals with modular systems, and the standardization and unitization of such buildings. Deals with floor plans and their technical-economic aspects. Includes considerations of planning for microdistricts and master plans for industrial complexes. The book is guided to senior high school and mid-level technical schools (in the USSR). It provides charts, drawings, and tables.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development distributes only its own publications. It does not distribute HUD-sponsored publications nor those prepared under contract to HUD. Retention copies of others may be ordered from the issuing organizations or publishers.

Comprehensive Planning (701) Reports may be consulted in the 9 HUD Planning Depository libraries listed below that receive all documents. Reports of local interest may also be consulted in the 10 HUD Regional Office libraries, and about a hundred planning schools and other university libraries. Retention copies are available for a few highly selected reports, and inquiry about their price and availability should be made to:

The Department of Housing and Urban Development distributes only its own publications. It does not distribute HUD-sponsored publications nor those prepared under contract to HUD. Retention copies of others may be ordered from the issuing organizations or publishers.

Comprehensive Planning (701) Reports may be consulted in the 9 HUD Planning Depository libraries listed below that receive all documents. Reports of local interest may also be consulted in the 10 HUD Regional Office libraries, and about a hundred planning schools and other university libraries. Retention copies are available for a few highly selected reports, and inquiry about their price and availability should be made to:

The Department of Housing and Urban Development distributes only its own publications. It does not distribute HUD-sponsored publications nor those prepared under contract to HUD. Retention copies of others may be ordered from the issuing organizations or publishers.

Comprehensive Planning (701) Reports [illegible] be consulted in the 9 HUD Planning Depository libraries listed below that receive all documents. Reports of local interest may also be consulted in the 10 HUD Regional Office libraries, and about a hundred planning schools and other university libraries. Retention copies are available for a few highly selected reports, and inquiry about their price and availability should be made to:
